Paint Mine

48 acres, 2.3 miles of trails. Paint Mine hosts its namesake feature, a natural ochre deposit that historically provided pigment for paint. Today, the old ochre mine is still visible on the property. Other prominent features include a 10 acre meadow called Hennessey Field, an old stone foundation, and a series of small ponds that were built during the 1930's to trap muskrats. After their abandonment in the 1950's, these ponds have slowly been reverting to the bog-like conditions.

Access is from Grove Street, Turning Mill Road, Estabrook School's parking area, and Robinson Road.
